There will be no session of the Legislature on Wednesday—Washington's birthday—and not much of a one on Tuesday, as most of the members will go to Milwaukee to see the Mardi Gras.

There will be a Garfield memorial service held in Central Music Hall, Chicago, on the 27th instant, the day set apart for the memorial service in Washington The Hon. E. B. Washburne will preside and Hon. Emery A. Storrs will deliver the oration.

To-morrow the Supreme Court will render an opinion in the biennial session matter, and the Madison Democrat takes upon itself to assert that "the Court will affirm the validity of the amendments, and will hold that they were submitted as separate propositions."

Mr. Trescott, the special minister to the South American governments, receives a salary of $10,000, with traveling expenses and an allowance of $1,500 for clerical service. And the Chicago Tribune is quite right when it says that Mr. Trescott is waving the most expensive olive-branch on record.

For the purpose of keeping the political coal aglow, and to draw attention to the fact that there are stalwarts and anti-stalwarts, the Albany Evening Journal says: "Hayes was abused by Emery Storrs and Emery Storrs was eulogized by Guiteau. Hayes can afford to be vilified by a man whom a murder compliments."

By the Haverhill fire, 102 shoe manufacturers were burned out, and over 200 firms. Two thousand laborers have been thrown out of employment. The property destroyed will reach nearly two million dollars. Three of the heaviest losers among the insurance companies are the Queen, which loses $81,000, the Ætna, $75,000, and the North British and Mercantile, $85,000. Three persons are known to have been killed.

An Indianapolis newspaper says the most expensive citizen this country ever produced died recently at the county asylum, near that city, where she has been an inmate for thirty-five years. The paper says: "For several months her daily allowance of opium had been from 90 to 100 grains besides a pint of whisky and considerable morphine. It is not intimated that objection was made in any quarter to this sort of treatment during the thirty-five years of its continuance."

To-day the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway company deposited $78,000 with Governor Rusk with which to settle with the hands on the Portage and Superior road. The State Journal says that as soon as the money is deposited in the treasury vaults, the Governor will appoint a competent person to act as agent for him and to liquidate the indebtedness of the Chicago, Portage & Superior to the Veazie and Superior laborers. Considerable trouble is anticipated, as it is known that claim-sharks have gone north in great numbers and have been buying up the claims of these laborers. These claim sharks are entitled to very little more respect than the ordinary highway robber.

During the past week the Legislature disposed of a large amount of business, killing a large number of worthless bills and passing a number of others of more or less importance. The interest bill which makes the rate eight per cent and and the legal rate six has passed the Assembly, but there is no hope that it will pass the Senate.

The bill to restore capital punishment and which passed the Senate, has gone to the Assembly. It was thought that the Assembly would kill the bill, but there are indications that it will be concurred in by that body. There has been a remarkable change in regard to this question during the past year or two, and unless all signs fail, Wisconsin will soon be among the States that hang for willful murder.

The military bill has been ordered to a third reading in the Assembly, and will virtually have no opposition in the Senate.

The apportionment committee which was so long in being organized, has at last been created, and held its first meeting on Friday. There are differences of opinion as to the effect of the House apportionment bill. Some regard the increasing of the number to 325 and giving Wisconsin nine instead of eight, will afford a happy issue out of the difficulties which it first surrounded the case, while others consider the question more complex than ever. It is thought that the apportionment will extend the session beyond the middle of March.

The bill providing for the building of a Supreme Court room, a Historical room, and a State Library room, will probably pass. The State is very much in need of these additional buildings, and there is no reason why the necessary appropriation should not be made The people of Madison offered to do something in the way of giving a bonus provided the State would erect the building outside the Capitol park; but such an offer could not be accepted, and if the building is erected at all it will more than likely be in one corner of the Capitol park.

All the bills asking for the building of State insane asylums—the number is a dozen or more—will be killed. Nearly every city in the State of any importance, excepting Janesville, wants an insane asylum. The county system which has been adopted by Rock and a few other counties, will make provision for several hundred more insane persons than there are insane in the State. Contractors and cities are the ones most anxious to have some of the dozen bills become a law.

ANTI-MORMON WORK.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The full text of the anti-polygamy bill, passed by the Senate, seems to meet the approval of those best acquainted with the wants of Utah. Mr. Campbell says that it is satisfactory as far as it goes. Judge McBride, Campbell's counsel, in the contested case stated, emphatically, this morning: "It is not all we want, but it is a decided step in advance and will undoubtedly be followed by further legislation." It is understood that Senator Edmunds has asked Campbell and McBride to indicate such of the existing Mormon laws of Utah as they deem should be repealed by Congress, and to suggest what further legislation is needful in order to put the government of the territory on a civilized American basis. Mr. Edmunds is particularly anxious for some action which will take the public schools out of Mormon control. The judiciary committee of the House is following faithfully in the wake of the like committee of the Senate on the Utah question, and is giving the matter earnest attention. It yesterday gave an extended hearing to Z. H. Gurley and E. L. Kelley, representatives of the Josphites or anti-polygamy Mormons. They strongly contended that polygamy was a crime and not religion, and that it was condemed by the Book of Mormon itself. They concluded their argument in these words: "In dealing with the question or passage of laws by which polygamy shall be extirpated, and priestly dominance and power be subjected to the laws of the land, we see no right of religious worship interfered with, but a simple prohibition of corrupt and evil practices, and we, in conclusion, submit that where such things are tolerated there can be no true homes, there can be no true government." By request of the committee, Mr. McBride followed with a lucid statement of the evils of existing laws in Utah, and in an argument in favor of the adoption of the bill to create a legislative council as the only thorough remedy.

CUPID.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Society circles are agog over an event in the prospective which will interest the people as a bit of gossip all over this land and Europe. It is given out on the highest authority possible that President Arthur, in June next will lead to the hymenial alter Miss Ida Farrell, who is an intimate friend of the Ingersolls.

Second Edition of Job.

Mrs. Ogden, N. Division Street, Buffalo, says: "I cannot be too thankful that I was induced to try SPRING BLOSSOM. I was at one time afraid I should never be able to get out again. I seemed to be a second edition of Job without his patience; my face and body were one vast collection of boils and pimples; since taking one bottle of your SPRING BLOSSOM I am quite cured, all eruptions have disappeared, and I feel better than I have in a long time." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

SHIPHERD.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Shipherd is in the city, and an attempt was made to interview him on the Peruvian Company question, but without much effect; for to all inquiries on the subject he referred the reporter to Blaine and Hurlburt for an explanation of dispatches which were published as passing between them. Collector Robertson was also approached but declined to say anything, as he did not wish to be dragged into controversy. Gen. Grant also declined to talk with any member of the press on the subject.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

LA CROSSE, Feb. 19—Tom Kelly was arrested near Eau Claire yesterday, and arrived here in charge of Sheriff Scott this morning. Kelly is supposed to know more about the mysterious disappearance of Dennis Donnelly from this city in November than is compatible with his well-being or innocence. It is also supposed that the negro, Tom May, arrested in Madison last week by Chief of Police Hatch, of La Crosse, for the murder of a mail carrier, is connected with the disappearance of Donnelly, as he, Tom Kelly and Ras. Williams were last seen in Donnelly's company before he disappeared. All three of the men are under arrest. It is now conceded that the mail carrier murder exists only in the minds of the detectives and that it was given out as a blind to throw Kelly off his guard.

Incredible.

F. A. Scratch, druggist, Rathven, Ont., writes: "I have the greatest confidence in your BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. In one case with which I am personally acquainted, their success was almost incredible. One lady told me that half a bottle did her more good than hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine she had previously taken." Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.

PLAYING POKER.

EAU CLAIRE, Feb. 18.—A man by the name of Odell Roff was struck with an iron poker this evening at Chippewa Falls by a saloon-keeper called Joe the Frenchman. His recovery is probably doubtful.

GAMBLING IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Mayor Harrison has succumbed to the pressure brought to bear upon him and will attempt to suppress gambling in Chicago in toto. Orders will be issued to the chief of police and by him disseminated to the effect that gambling will no longer be countenanced by the city authorities. The mayor gave up his trip to New Orleans to attend the mardi-gras, and will occupy himself in trying to suppress the gamblers who have run things with a high hand for many years.

ON A COW'S HORNS.

WATERTOWN, Feb. 18.—Henry Klug aged 13 years, son of a wealthy farmer near Lowell, to-day fell from a straw stack upon a cow, and was badly pierced by her horns. He lies in a critical condition, and the doctors say his recovery is doubtful.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Mr. Bragg has introduced a bill fixing the compensation of United States district attorneys and it is pending in the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice. The attorneys for the Wisconsin districts are placed as follows: The district attorney for the Eeastern District of Wisconsin, $4000: one assistant attorney at a salary of $1,000. The district attorney for the Western district of Wisconsin, $2,000; one assistant attorney at a salary of $1,200 a year. This is the maximum compensation allowed by the bill, and is in lieu of all fees and percentages to which attorneys have hitherto been entitled. They are also required to attend to all suits to which the United States is a party, but they are allowed mileage to the extent of 5 cents a mile when actually traveling on business for the government.

TRESPASSERS.

WASHINGTON, February 19.—The chairman of the House committee on public lands, Mr. Pound, has in charge a bill which requires that in all suits, civil or criminal, for any trespass on the public lands of the United States, or for any conversion of timber or material taken therefrom, the actual expense of the survey or estimate necessarily incurred to ascertain the damages by reason of such trespass shall be proved and included in the cost of the suit and in the judgment entered therefor. Whenever any suit shall be abated or discontinued by reason of the entry of such payment of the government price for the lands so trespassed upon, the costs required to be paid on such discontinuance shall include the expense of the survey. The bill has the approval of the committee on public lands, and will be pressed in the House by Mr. Pound.

A HORRIBLE MASSACRE.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres, dated January 24, says particulars have been received there of the massacre of the inhabitants of Pisco by the Peruvian soldiery. Colonel Mas, with 600 troops from Ica, attacked Vihavacencio, routed him, and with the aid of his men proceeded to take Pisco,

A thousand pipes of wine were distributed among the men, who burned the houses and murdered the inhabitants.

Four hundred foreigners attempted to resist, and were cut to pieces, 300 being killed, including the French consul. The total number of the victims was 1,000. It is said Colonel Mas has since been shot by Garci Calderon's troops.

Pisco river flows into the Pacific 130 miles south of Lima, and the town of Pisco is situated at the mouth of the stream.

SNARING AN ALLIGATOR.

A Curious and Exciting Adventure in Florida.

A Florida correspondent tells in Forest and Stream of his adventure in snaring an alligator. "We procured," he says, "a strong seven-eighths manila rope, forty feet long, a small halter chain (twisted links), eight feet long, and a piece of well-dressed hickory.

"The latter we cut to a length of eight inches, leaving the diameter one and a half inches, and we sharpened each end.

"At the center we girded it with a quarter-inch groove, leaving the diameter still one inch.

"The stick of wood we securely fastened to the link.

"To the other end of the chain our rope was fastened. Our snare now had the appearance of a cap T with the upright stroke very much elongated.

"We now procured a ten-pound chunk of beef, into which we securely fastened the piece of hickory, and then, bringing one end of the stick parallel with the chain, we fastened it there with a bit of yarn.

"Repairing to the 'reserve' we selected a spot, secured our rope to a pine tree growing near its edge, and then by the aid of a canoe we carried the bait out as far as the rope would permit. To insure the floating of the bait near the surface of the water, we laid the rope across a five-foot strip of plank.

"Everything completed, we retired to await developments. Early next morning we were at the reserve, and there, sure enough, we had a 'gator fast, and, judging from the muddy condition of the water, he was a whopper, and had been there some time.

"The rope was moving through the water in quite a rapid manner, and, without unfastening it, we made a pull with all our strength, but we might as well have tried to lift an elephant by the tail.

"After much talk, it was suggested and agreed to that we make use of a small wagon and a pair of mules belonging to the party.

"I went for the team, and, in my haste, did not take time to put the body on the wagon, it having been removed for the purpose of hauling wood. Hastily throwing a plank across the bolsters, I seated myself and drove over to where the party awaited me.

"The rope had been secured by a slip-loop, without passing it around the tree, so we had only to fasten the loose end to the hind axle and drive away, and thus slip the knot and make a direct pull on the 'gator. After securely fastening this rope to the axle, I seated myself on the plank and gave the mules the slack.

"The mules were young, fiery, and hardly broken to harness, and had repeatedly run away, endangering our lives on more than one occasion; but we had not thought of this in our excitement.

"For a moment after starting the team there was a strain on the rope, and then out came tha huge monster, covered with mud, and lashing the water into foam with his tail, the noise he made resembling to some extent the beatings of a huge propeller.

"The mules both looked around; and as they did so the monster gave a roar that made the very earth tremble. The team, alligator and your humble servant started for home.

"The distance was about two miles, and I think if Rarus had seen us he would have left the track with a broken heart.

"The mules left the road—in fact, made a new one without the aid of a surveyor—and that alligator bounded in the air as he never bounded before.

"Now and then he would rap against a tree, but he scarcely touched the ground, and I had serious fears for a while that, in his anxiety to go ahead, he might put a head on me; however, we reached home at last, and the mules, completely winded, stopped of their own accord.

"When we came to sum up, we found all the 'run' taken out of the mules, one tire gone, three spokes in another wheel broken—in fact, the wagon a wreck.

"My suit of clothes was torn to rags, and my person bruised, torn and bleeding by the terrible whipping of the trees and bushes over which we had passed.

"A fourteen-foot alligator, with every bone broken, was almost skinned by his constant banging against the trees."

Lobsters.

Over four hundred men and boats, and probably over 40,000 pots, are engaged on the Massachusetts coast alone in the lobster fishery, and at least 5,000,000 lobsters are distributed here yearly, over one-half of which came here from Maine, which State sends us her primest fish, the poorer being used in the canning factories. These are nearly all taken in pots in the summer near the rocky shores and ledges and in the harbors, and in winter from seven to thirty miles off shore on rocky bottoms by schooners fitted for this fishery.—New York Times.

Hank Was Bigger Than Jed.

Three or four mornings ago a stalwart farmer man, about thirty-five years of age, reached the city from the north, and at once informed the police that he was on the trail of his wife, who had eloped with a neighbor and headed for Detroit. In the course of two hours the guilty pair were found and taken to the Ninth-avenue Station, where the outraged husband confronted them. He had repeatedly said that he would kill the man on sight, and to give weight to his assertions he displayed a rusty old revolver which had been loaded ever since the war closed.

"Yes, I'll kill him—kill him as dead as a door nail!" he muttered not five minutes before the guilty pair came in.

But lo! a great change took place as they entered. Instead of pulling out the deadly weapon and uttering a battle-cry, a smile lit up his face and he held out a hand to either for a shake, saying:

"Hank, I didn't believe you was mean 'nuff to do this."

"Well, Jed, I feel sorry," replied Hank as he warmed his fingers.

"So you followed us?" queried the wife as she looked around the room.

"Yes, Mary. What in thunder made you skip out in this way? Have you anything agin me?"

"No, not as I knows on, but Hank said he loved me best."

"Now, Hank, did you tell that? Well, I'd never believed sich a thing of you."

"Say, Jed, I feel mighty mean over this thing," replied Hank.

"So do I," added Mary.

"Well, you orter, I tell ye. The man who runs off with a neighbor's wife is the next thing to p'izen."

"I shall never do it again, Jeddy darling," said the wife, as she patted his cheek. "I tell you I was awful homesick to see your dear old face."

"Was you, pussy? I thought you would be," he answered, as he kissed her on the nose.

"Jed, are ye going to raise a fuss over this?" inquired Hank.

"Well, I orter."

"Oh, I wouldn't. I'm willin' to do what's fair. You'n I have allus been good friends."

"I know it, Hank."

"If I was married and you stopped off with my wife I'd forgive ye, blamed if I wouldn't. I'll settle all the damages as far as I kin."

"That's fair—that's man-like," mused Jed.

"I'll give ye that three-year-old colt and call it square."

"Take the colt, Jed," prompted the wife.

"I'll do it, Hank, and here's my hand on it! There hain't nothing mean about you, after all. You'n Mary won't slope agin?"

"No."

"How could I leave my Jeddy?" she whispered as she patted his left ear.

"Well, then it's all settled," remarked the husband. "We all go home, I take the colt, you both promise not to slope again, and everything is lovely."

"Don't you enter a complaint against them?" asked the captain.

"No, I guess not. You see, Hank is kinder squar' and honest, and Mary is willin' to make up, and though I'm a perfect fiend when I'm roused I guess it's my duty to forgive 'em both in this case."

The trio went out, each face as serene as a June morning, and when Hank and Jed decided to take some beer to brace up on, Mary waited on the corner and sang:

"Be it ever so humble,
There's no place like home."

ADULTERATION OF FOOD.

Poisoning the People—Swindles of Unprincipled Wretches—The Imperative Duty of Legislators.

[From the American Trade Journal.]

One of the growing evils of the present day is the adulteration of food. Heretofore the ingenuity and dishonesty of a certain class of disreputable persons have been turned to the work of adulterating various wearing and other materials—such as shoddy woolen goods, shoddy cotton goods (made principally of fuller's earth and starch), "loaded" silks, artificial sole-leather, cast-iron jackknives, wooden nutmegs, chiccory and rye coffee, and all kinds of adulterated spices, etc.; but latterly the adulteration of articles of food, such as butter and cheese, sugars, etc., has taken on such immense proportions that it is likely to become a national evil as well as a national disgrace, unless it is suddenly checked by the strong hand of the law, aided by the hearty co-operation of all honest men. So long as men's purses only were made to suffer, they might bear the imposition of counterfeit and adulterated goods with some show of equanimity, but when their lives are threatened by counterfeit and adulterated articles of daily food forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and the sooner the makers and vendors of such goods are brought to the bar of justice, and their nefarious business put an end to, the better it will be for all parties concerned.

Formerly, the work of adulteration and counterfeiting was carried on in secret, and the operators took every precaution against detection. Now the manufacturers of the vile compounds known as butterine, oleomargarine, suine, etc., take particular pains to advertise the millions of pounds they manufacture, and publicly boast that they so completely counterfeit the genuine article that even an expert cannot detect it. Large manufactories are elaborately illustrated and described in the leading papers of the day, and scientific descriptions of the chemical and mechanical methods of purifying the disgusting offal of slaughter-houses are written and printed in scientific journals and the daily press at a dollar a line, together with scientific disquisitions on the innocuousness of such ingredients when purified by poisonous and deadly acids. Thus the people are assured that millions and even hundreds of millions of these articles of food are manufactured and put upon the market, while it is almost impossible to find a pound of the stuffs sold as such. The only conclusion to be arrived at is, that they are sold by the retail grocers, and purchased by the consumers, in the great majority of instances, as genuine products of the dairy, and at the same price as the genuine article. Thus foul and poisonous stuffs, costing from 1 to 2 cents per pound, are sold at 30 to 35 cents per pound, or whatever the real article may bring in the market, and in this immense profit, divided between the producer and the retailer, we see the strong inducements offered for these dishonest practices.

Nor is this crime of adulteration confined to the large cities. It is stated that an entire soap-stone quarry in one of the Eastern States is being ground into a fine, flour-like substance by an enterprising firm, and distributed throughout the country to farmers, dairymen and butter dealers as an adulterant for butter. Thousands upon thousands of circulars are sent out to that class of producers, offering to furnish the adulterant at 1 cent per pound, and assuring them that it can be used to the extent of 25, 50 or even 75 per cent. in butter without fear of detection. We are not aware whether it has been yet decided by competent medical and scientific authority which is the most deadly in its effects upon the human system, this indigestible powdered stone, administered in real butter, or the acid-impregnated entrail fats of hogs and cattle, administered free of any admixture of real butter. Either will undoubtedly prove fatal to human life sooner or later. Already numerous new and inexplicable diseases with which the best physicians find it impossible to contend have been added to the list of ills which poor humanity is heir to, and others will undoubtedly follow.

It is high time that all the powers of the law were employed to counteract these nefarious and deadly practices, and if the present laws are not sufficient to meet the various cases as they arise, new laws, more efficient, more summary and with greater penalties attached, should be enacted at once.

This business should no longer be allowed to flourish. Laws should be enacted not only to punish those engaged in the sale of the counterfeit and adulterated food, but to punish the manufacturers and seize and confiscate their factories, just as the dies and plates of counterfeiters of currency are served, and the manufacture of the vile stuffs, under whatever name they may be sold or put upon the market, may be eradicated and suppressed.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876, I was taken with a VIOLENT BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when, to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will be induced take DR WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles, and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared, and I shall soon be able to go to work." Sold by druggists. 1

How a Story Grows.

A farmer once was told that his turnip field had been robbed, and that the robbery had been committed by a poor, inoffensive man, of the name of Palmer, who, many of the people of the village said, had taken away a wagon load of turnips. Farmer Brown, much exasperated by the loss of his turnips, determined to prosecute poor Palmer with all the severity of the law. With this intention he went to Molly Sanders, the washerwoman, who had been busy in spreading the report, to know the whole truth; but Molly denied ever having said anything about a wagon load of turnips. It was but a cart load that Palmer had taken, and Dame Hodson, the huckster, had told her so, over and over again. The farmer, hearing this, went to Dame Hodson, who said that Molly Sanders was always making things worse than they really were; that Palmer had taken only a wheelbarrow full of turnips, and that she had her account from Jenkins, the tailor. Away went the farmer to Jenkins, the tailor, who stoutly denied the account altogether; he had only told Dame Hodson that Palmer had pulled up several turnips, but how many he could not tell, for that he did not see himself, but was told by Tom Slack, the plowman. Farmer Brown next questioned Tom Slack, who, in his turn, declared he had never said a word about seeing Palmer pull up several turnips; he only said he had heard say that Palmer had pulled up a turnip, and that Barnes, the barber, was the person who had told him about it. The farmer, almost out of patience at this account, hurried off to Barnes, the barber, who wondered much that the people should find pleasure in spreading idle tales which had no truth in them! He assured the farmer all he had said about the matter, while he took off the beard of Tom Slack, was that, for all he knew, Palmer was as likely a man to pull up a turnip as his neighbor.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—ED.

Brain-Work and Sleep.

So long as the brain-worker is able to sleep well, to eat well and to take a fair proportion of out-door exercise, it is not necessary to impose any special limits on the actual number of hours he devotes to his labors. But when what is generally known as worry steps in to complicate matters, when cares connected with family arrangements, or with those numerous personal details which we can seldom escape, intervene, or when the daily occupation of life is in itself a fertile source of anxiety, then we find one or other of these three safeguards broken down. Probably the man of business or the successful lawyer fails to shake himself free from his anxieties at night, and slumber becomes fitful or disturbed. The nervous system, unsettled by the mental strain, brings about various defects in nutrition; the appetite fails, and then we meet with the sleeplessness, the dyspepsia, the irresolution, the irritability and the depression which are the chief miseries of the overworked.

The great thing in these cases is to get a rest at any cost. By rest we do not mean doing nothing, but rather change of scene, of thought and occupation. If you tell a busy man that he must do nothing, he may endeavor to obey you, but he will soon find out that he cannot, for his brain keeps on working in the same old groove, and he is as much, or even more, worried about his business as if he were still in the thick of it. The great thing is to get a rest by substituting one kind of work by another, to have for a time a nice, comfortable sort of occupation to replace the old weary round of troubles. One of the most important remedial agents is outdoor life and exercise, which may be taken in any form most congenial to the individual—riding, walking, field sports or what not. This is at once the most natural and often the most effectual promoter of sleep we can employ.

Active bodily exertion is well known to be incompatible with the maximum of intellectual work, and full advantage should be taken of this fact. The only thing to avoid is excessive fatigue. It is a remarkable fact that a very large number of distinguished literary and scientific men have suffered severely from megrim, and it would seem that some of them have succeeded in ridding themselves of the malady by the adoption of some simple hygienic measure. One, for instance, cured himself by following the prescription of a farrier, who advised him to drink water, eat little and take exercise. Another was cured by drinking every day a large quantity of fresh water, and exchanging a highly nutritious regimen for a much-lighter dietary. A third got rid of his old enemy by the same means, and by taking exercise every day before dinner. There can be no doubt that in many cases great benefit would be derived from a thorough change of locality or climate. Long sea voyages are not infrequently attended with excellent results, the attacks being absent for months at a time. Unfortunately, these are remedies not within the reach of all.—Family Physician.

Death from Delirium Tremens.

A Detroit physician, who seems to have a rare idea of what fun is, has published a treatise on delirium tremens, in which he says death from such a source is not painful, but very pleasant. Many who have witnessed the ravings of a patient with delirium tremens, when it required three or four men to hold him in bed, in his anxiety to escape from serpents which crawled upon the ceiling, and rats that hung about his pillow; when his best friends had turned to be the worst fiends in the imagination of the sufferer, may reasonably doubt the doctor's conclusions. Death from no other disease leaves such marks upon the poor, wrecked vital organs of the body as from delirium tremens in an old drinker. The coats of the stomach, instead of being as thin as a knife-blade, are often found an inch or two in thickness, and covered with ulcers. The liver is nearly always a mass of disease, and arteries which convey the alcoholic liquor to the brain and the delicate nerve centers in an almost pure state are necessarily diseased. If death, with the body and mind in the condition of delirium tremens, "is not painful, but very pleasant," as our Detroit doctor declares, then hanging or strangling to death must be a real luxury.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A POOR excuse is better than none. We hear of a man who justifies his meanness toward his wife by asserting that he and she are one, and therefore by refusing to furnish her with money he practices that heroic virtue of self-denial.—Boston Transcript.

BITS OF INFORMATION.

HIBERNIA is the Latin name for Ireland.

COTTON MATHER wrote 382 works of all kinds.

MEMPHIS was built by Mizraim 2,000 years and more before Christ.

THE slang word "crack" (as, a "crack" regiment) is a corruption of "crepo," to boast of. It is English university slang, and was in common use in Shakspeare's time.

ALUMINUM when fused and cast in molds is soft as pure silver, but when hammered or rolled it becomes as hard as iron.

NITRO-GLYCERINE was invented by Soblero in 1847. In 1863 Alfred Nobel, a German, first mixed it with gunpowder, and used it for blasting, and, after further experiments, invented dynamite, by mixing it with infusorial earth.

GLASS was first introduced into England in 674. Its use was at first entirely confined to religious edifices, and did not become general until the fourteenth century. The first glass manufactory in America was established by John Hewes, in New Hampshire, in 1790.

THE "Riot Act" is an English law, providing "that if any persons to the number of twelve or more, being unlawfully, riotously and tumultuously assembled together to the disturbance of the public peace, shall continue so assembled for the space of an hour after a magistrate has commanded them by proclamation to disperse, they shall be considered felons." It is the custom in England always to read the "Riot Act" before proceeding to extremities.

IN the ancient Egyptian astronomy, the order of the planets, in respect of distance from the earth, beginning with the most remote, is Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, the sun, Venus, Mercury, the moon. The day was divided into twenty-four hours, and each successive hour consecrated to a particular planet in the order stated—so that, one hour being consecrated to Saturn, the next ten to Jupiter, the third to Mars, and so on, and each day was named after the planet to which its first hour was consecrated. The Egyptian week began with Saturday, or the day of Saturn; and the Jews, because of their flight on that day, made it the last day of their week—the last day of their bondage—hence their Sabbath or rest from labor.

THE term "Porte," which is used to denote the administrative government of the Ottoman empire, and includes the Sultan, the Grand Vizier, and the great Council of State, had its origin in this way: In the famous institutes established by the famous warrior, Sultan Mohammed II., the Turkish body politic was described by the metaphor of a stately tent, whose domes rested upon four pillars. "The Viziers formed the first pillar, the Judges the second, the Treasurers the third, and the Secretaries the fourth." The chief seat of the government was figuratively named the "Lofty Gate of the Royal Tent," in allusion to the practice of earlier times, when the Ottoman rulers sat at the tent door to administer justice. The Italian translation of this name was "Le Porte Sublima." This phrase was modified in English to the "Sublime Porte," and finally the adjective has been dropped, leaving it simply "The Porte."

DR. PRICE'S REPUTATION!

Has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

BITTERS

A remedy with such a reputation as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters deserves a fair trial. If you are dyspeptic, your malady will eventually yield to it; if you are feeble, lack flesh and feel despondent, it will both build and cheer you up; if you are constipated, it will relieve, and if bilious, healthfully stimulate your liver. Don't despond, but make this effort in the right direction.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

HOED CROPS.—Farmers frequently stop the cultivation of hoed crops too soon and allow the weeds to gain possession of the soil. Cultivate early and often should be the rule for corn.

KEEPING GRAPES.—A lady has discovered that grapes packed in granulated sugar will keep fresh longer than when packed in sawdust, and, as the sugar is not injured, expense will not prove an objection.

ONIONS.—An old gardener says in the Detroit Tribune, with regard to cultivating onions, that if care is taken to draw away the earth gradually from the bulbs until they are quite uncovered, and only the fibrous roots are in the earth, you will never have scullions, but very large, sound onions.

GRAPES VINES.—Trellises for vines can be made or repaired cheaper and more conveniently now than in spring. Locust is the most durable wood; red chesnut and chesnut rank next. Where locust is scarce pieces three feet long may be sunk two and a half feet in the ground and uprights of pine or other timber nailed to them.

SALT FOR LAND.—Salt should not be applied to such lands as border on the sea or are in any way affected by the spray of the ocean. Coarse salt should be mixed with the compost heap and not applied directly to the plants. Asparagus, naturally a native of the seashore, will require large quantities of salt. This should only be applied, however, when the shoots are growing. At any other time it will injure the roots. Used on the beds about the end of May it will help to kill weeds and grasses.

STRAWBERRIES IN THE CITY.—The following novel suggestion is from the Fruit Recorder, and is one that might be carried out with little trouble and expense: "How many of our city readers might have fresh, fragrant strawberries and other dainties, with but little care or trouble! But, say some, 'the rain water would be filled with dirt.' No, not if properly grown—that is, by setting the pots or boxes holding the plants in pans or boxes that are water tight. Fifty plants of strawberries would give a family of four to five persons a nice dish daily for two weeks. Fifty pots of annuals like petunias, balsams, etc., would make a show that would be beautiful and well repay all trouble. Try it, readers."

ORCHARD NOTES.—It is commonly the case that the orchard is cropped year after year until the diminished yield shows that something must be done. The proper way is to give a moderate manuring annually; stable manure put on in the fall and plowed in, or in small orchards forked in, may be alternated with ashes or lime on other years. Clover to be pastured by hogs, and afterward plowed under, is one of the best fertilizers. Trees of forced growth are more tender than others and so suffer more from sudden changes of climate. For this reason too high cultivation is as bad as not enough. Heading back and root pruning are the best methods of restoring barren trees. Wood ashes is the best fertilizer for trees, vines and bushes. Prune apple-trees so as to give them a low, well-balanced top. One such tree is worth several tall, irregular trees. Peach orchards should have a dry, fertile soil on a Northern or Western slope.

LATE EVERGREEN CORN.—A trustworthy writer in the Rural New Yorker plants his evergreen sweet corn in the following way: The soil is sandy gravel, naturally warm, and of moderate fertility; in fact, not rich enough to produce satisfactory crops without manure, which I did not have in sufficient supply to feel sure of a full crop. Consequently I purchased a little superphosphate to give the corn the benefit of its effects (if any) in its earliest growth. As the crop of field corn was planted, having a little manure yet in the cattle yard, we scraped together what we could and spread it on the plot to be planted to sweet corn for green fodder. The piece had wheat grown on it the year before, the ground having been plowed in the fall and replowed in the spring before applying the yard manure, also after the manure was applied. The reason why I plowed so many times was that a part of the piece had an abundance of quack grass on it, and I wished to destroy that if possible. Everything was now ready to plant corn on the 25th of May, the plot having been harrowed and marked. We then put about a tablespoonful of the superphosphate at each crossing of the marks, covering it slightly with mellow soil and planted the corn on the places thus prepared.

PROFIT AND LOSS WITH POULTRY.—A sensible writer says that the direct profit or loss with stock of any kind whatever comes from the feeding resorted to. If proper food has been given, at regular intervals, in sufficient quantity, profit is the natural result, while haphazard management results disastrously. In the feeding and management of poultry there is more for discipline than with any other kind of stock. There is far too much corn, in different forms, fed to breeding poultry, and to layers to secure the best results, for corn has a great tendency to produce fat, which is not desirable where plenty of eggs are expected, the fat forming so thickly on and around the ovaries and other organs as to effectually prevent the fowls from laying. In cold weather, warmth and heat are necessary, and feeding corn moderately to the laying hens is not so objectionable as it is during the warm summer months, while over fat fowls are more liable to disease and ailments than those only in good condition. For the laying fowls no better food can be given for a principal diet than good, sound, whole wheat, though it must not be given in the same quantities as corn. Screenings are not all objectionable, provided they are not musty or spoiled, though the price at which they are usually sold makes them more expensive than good wheat, for the simple reason that scarcely one-half the screenings is wheat or will be consumed by the poultry, the greater part being cheat, cockle, weed seeds, etc. For the fattening of poultry corn is the very best and cheapest food which can be given to accomplish it. To secure the greatest profit from the poultry it is economy in the end to keep the birds growing rapidly from the start, and a couple of weeks before they are to be marketed have them penned up and fed principally on soft food, such as scalded corn meal, well boiled mush, oat meal mush (if the meal can be gotten cheaply), etc., feeding twice a day at first, and toward the last three times, only what they will eat up with an appetite, and confining the birds in a darkened room, giving them light only at feeding time.

HOUSEKEEPERS' HELPS.

APRICOT SAUCE.—Put half a pot of apricot jam in a saucepan with half a pint of water and a glass of sherry; boil, strain and serve.

IRON MOULD.—To remove iron mould from linen, wash the spots in a strong solution of cream of tartar and water; repeat if necessary, and dry in the sun.

FRIED SMELTS.—Let them be carefully floured, and fry them in plenty of hot lard. When done drain them well in front of the fire, sprinkle them all over with very fine salt, and serve with fried parsley and lemon cut into "quarters."

COFFEE CAKE.—This is one of the best of plain cakes and is very easily made. Take one cup of strong coffee infusion, one cup molasses, one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one egg and one teaspoonful salaratus. Add spice and raisins to suit the taste and enough flour to make a reasonable thick batter. Bake rather slowly in tin pans lined with buttered paper.

SIR WATKIN WYNN'S PUDDING.—Six ounces chopped lemon peel, four ounces beef suit chopped fine, four ounces white bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of flour, three ounces of moist sugar, two ounces of apricot jam, a small liquor glass of marachino or of curacoa, one desert spoonful of milk and three fresh eggs. Mix all together, pour into a buttered shape and steam three hours. Apricot jam sauce to be served under the pudding.

SAVE THE PICTURES.—Picture scraps may often be used with capital effect. Small rooms, and nurseries especially, papered with them and afterward varnished afford great entertainment. Cornices may be made of them to run all around the wall paper, with about two inches of gold foil between each and a black bordering. Wooden fireboards add Holland mats may also be covered with them. These must, of course be varnished.

ROAST SIRLOIN OF BEEF.—Cut off most of the flap and trim the joint neatly. Have a clear, brisk fire, well built up. Place the joint close to it for the first half hour, then move it further off. Baste frequently. When nearly done sprinkle the joint well over with salt. Put a small quantity of water in the dripping-pan, then pour off the gravy, free it effectually from fat and pour it over the joint in the dish. Time of roasting, about three hours for a ten to twelve pound sirloin. Garnish with scraped horseradish and Yorkshire pudding. Serve horseradish sauce in a tureen.

ROAST WILD DUCK.—Roast at a very brisk fire not longer than fifteen, or at most twenty minutes. Baste frequently with butter, and sprinkle freely with salt at the time of serving. Serve with Bigarade Sauce. Pare off, as thinly as possible, the yellow rind of two Seville oranges; cut it into very thin shreds and boil them in water for five minutes. Put a piece of butter in a saucepan with a tablespoonful of flour and stir till it begins to color; add a gill of stock, pepper and salt to taste, the juice of the oranges and a good pinch of sugar; then put in the boiled rinds, stir the sauce till it boils and serve.

STEWED CELERY.—Trim and cut to the same length a number of heads of celery, split them in two lengthwise, tie them in bundles with thread, and parboil them for ten minutes in salted water. Drain them, and arrange them in a saucepan over slices of bacon, with a bundle of sweet herbs, a couple of onions, pepper and salt to taste, and a blade of mace. Add enough stock just to cover the contents and simmer gently till the celery is quite tender. Having removed the string, dispose the celery on a dish; take some of the stock in which it has been stewed, remove all fat from it, add a small piece of fresh butter, pour it over the celery and serve.

Completely Accommodated.

"You had better get rid of that stove-pipe hat; you'll be livelier without it," said a powerfully-built, red-faced young truck driver the other day as he nearly drove over a delicate-looking gentleman on Park Row. The pedestrian had to skip in a very undignified manner to escape.

"You want your neck wrung very badly," he said, as he gained the sidewalk and looked after the truck.

The driver heard him and pulled up his horse at once.

"Will you ring it?" he asked in gruff tones.

The gentleman took a few seconds to consider the question. Then he said:

"No, I'll leave that job for the hangman; but I'll flatten your nose, if that will suit you."

It appeared that the proposal suited the driver, for in thirty seconds he stood before his fragile-looking man.

"Now flatten my nose," he said, defiantly.

It was done before the words were well out of his mouth, and as he lay on his back in the gutter the expression on his blood-bespattered countenance was that of mingled pain and amazement.

"What did you strike that man for?" asked a policeman, hurrying up, and seizing the gentleman by the arm.

"Because he asked me to strike him, you know," was the reply, "and as he looked like an honest, good-natured young fellow, I didn't like to disoblige him."

The policeman looked at the truckman, who rose slowly, and without making any complaint mounted the seat of his wagon and drove off.

"Well," said the policeman, impressively, as he walked away, "there's no accountin' for tastes."—N. Y. Sun.

—"Excuse me, Miss Malony, but may I inquire what this arrangement means that you have hung up on the kitchen wall?" "Oh, that; sure an' it's a dado, mam, and just wait till you see the beautiful paycock's feather I'll be after hanging above the dure. It's issthetic I am, mam, if you please, and my yallery greenery young man's coming here to take tay wid me this evening."

IT IS THE HEIGHT OF FOLLY to wait until you are in bed with disease you may not get over for months, when you can be cured during the early symptoms by Parker's Ginger Tonic. We have known the sickliest families made the healthiest by a timely use of this pure medicine.—Observer.

FOR

NERVOUS DEBILITY

SOLD IN — A YEAR

AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail, sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlet giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere 25 cents a bottle. mar18d-mon-wed-sat-33wly

A POPULAR TONIC

For Weak Lungs and Consumption.

No preparation ever introduced to the American public, for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitutions, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the indorsements of physicians or patients as the celebrated "Tolu, Rock and Rye." The repeated and continued sales of the article everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country, attesting the stimulating, tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and can be adduced to convince the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic virtues. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted or pining away with pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tolu, Rock and Rye.—Chicago Times. dec21deod6m —Fourteen hundred people crowded into the Baptist church last night to witness the Rev. Dr. Hodge perform the baptismal rite. There were nine persons immersed.

—Mr. J. H. Heckman, of South Bend, Indiana, a gentleman who has had considerable experience in the hotel business, will now fill the position of night clerk at the Myers' house.

—The fare for the round trip to Milwaukee to attend the Mardi Gras which will be held at the Exposition building to-morrow night, is only $2.85 over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road.

—The remains of Mr. J. G. Heacock, of Iowa, formerly of the town of Janesville, were brought back on Saturday last, and interred yesterday in the cemetery in that town near Milton avenue.

—Harry Anderson's orchestra play at Woodstock to-night. On Wednesday night Harry furnishes the music for the Daughters of Rebecca at the Rifles armory, and on Friday night he plays for the Guards at their armory.

—Mr. D. L. Fry, of Chicago, brother-in-law of Mr. Silas Hayner, came with the Belle Hayner funeral party on Saturday, and remained in the city during to-day. He is proprietor of a large book and job printing establishment on La Salle street.

—Ogden H. Fethers, a Janesville lawyer, who is also a born orator, was a visitor to Milwaukee last week, making many friends. He is on the direct road to soon command the grand army of Knights of Pythias in Wisconsin.—Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph.

—The Gazette has received from the United States News Company, a copy of "The Season," one of the very finest illustrated fashion magazines published in this country. The plates are superbly fine, and the articles cover a wide range. The price is only 30 cents a number.

—Says the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph: "A. W. Baldwin, of Janesville, who has been clerk of the circuit court thirteen years, who is a prominent Mason, Knight of Pythias, Knight of Honor and Temple of Honor, and a gentleman whom one cannot meet without liking, spent two or three days in town last week."

—George Scarcliff's horse, attached to his grocery wagon, made an unsuccessful attempt to furnish a first class item this afternoon. He almost succeeded in getting away from the driver, but was stopped on East Milwaukee street, opposite the Farmer's hotel. No damage was done. It was the event of the day, and soon brought several hundred people onto the street.

—There seems to be a contest between two Milwaukee morning papers as to which shall reach Janesville the earliest after publication. For a long time the Sentinel was distributed at two o'clock in the afternoon, and the Republican between three and four. But lately the Republican, by publishing a midnight edition, came here at 9:27 and was distributed before ten. But the Sentinel published this morning, reached here in time to be distributed by eight o'clock, which is the earliest by two hours that ever a Milwaukee morning paper was distributed in Janesville. Janesville's railway and mail facilities are among the very best.

A Fresh Compliment for Miss Guernsey.

Every friend of Miss Minerva Guernsey in Janesville, will read with pride the following notice of her Chickering Hall entertainment in New York. It is a mark of honor which but few young readers in this country have ever received:

Miss Minerva Guernsey, a young lady from Boston who expects to make her debut on the dramatic stage a year or so hence, in a new tragedy based on Goethe's Faust, made her first appearance in thia city, in dramatic impersonations, at Chickering Hall, on Monday night. Miss Guernsey is possessed of a frag le but graceful stage figure, and a face with much expressiveness and a quiet kind of beauty. She gave a sketch of Topsy, a scene from The Tempest, the Steeple Chase, from London Assurance, and the Prison Scene, from Faust. Her voice has great range, power and flexibility, and she uses it with consummate judgment and skill. She is not a dramatic reader or an elocutionist, as those terms are usually understood, but depicts with physical action, as well as with voice and facial expression, the character she impersonates. She has fine control of her face, and the changes of expression, as well in visage as in voice, from the sprite Ariel to the monster Caliban were intense, vivid and instantaneous, while she as instantly seemed to assume the spirit and throw her power and feelings into the personation of each successive character. In Faust the range of her power and the delicacy of her perception was still more conspicuous, and the transitions from the deep, hollow, mocking laughter of Mephistopheles to the soft, sweet voice of Marguerite and the pleading tones of the repentent lover, Faust, were complete and at times startling. She is evidently a lady of unusual talent. In connection with her appearance the Listeman Brothers gave a fine concert.

The above handsome compliment, and one which has been thoroughly won, is from the New York Dramatic News, a paper whose criticism means something. When an actor, a singer, or a dramatic reader receives words of praise from that paper it is a sort of certificate of character—something worth having and something which down-right merit alone can win.

A remedy for indigestion, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Weakness, Fever, Ague, etc., GOLDEN'S LIEBIG'S LIQUID BEEF and TONIC INVIGORATOR.

The Box Factory.

The cigar box factory of F. G. Stevens & Co., on North Main street, is one of the busy places of Janesville, and one that will repay a visit by anyone who may desire to visit the different departments of the factory. Thirty-four hands, sixteen of whom are girls, are here given constant employment, in the manufacture of all kinds and grades of cigar boxes, turning out about seven thousand per week, using up ten thousand feet of bass-wood lumber per month, besides large quantities of cedar. Everything in the factory is in perfect order, and is under the immediate charge of Mr. John Thoroughgood, one of the proprietors, who has himself invented several labor-saving machines used in the construction of the boxes. A visitor has to wait but a short time to see one of the handsomest trimmed boxes made from a rough bass-wood board. They have a printing machine in use for printing on the wooden boxes, a machine for nailing the boxes together, and, in fact, most of the work is done by machinery, thereby insuring uniformity of all their work. This company enjoy a large and steadily increasing trade throughout the West and Northwest, and so well are their goods liked, that they sell themselves after having been once introduced. Surely this is one of the liveliest of manufactories, and is deserving of the high reputation and success which it enjoys.

A Severe Wound.

On Saturday last, the fifteen year old son of Mr. J. B. Cadwell, who lives east of the city in the town of Harmony, received an ugly wound in the right hand and arm, by the accidental discharge of a pistol. It seems that the boy had procured a 32-caliber Smith & Wesson revolver, for the purpose of shooting skunks, and on Saturday last he was in his father's barn, exhibiting the weapon to some boys, when the pistol was discharged, the ball entering the right hand and passing up the center of the arm near the elbow. Surgical aid was immediately called, but the wound was so severe and so badly swoolen that the ball was not extracted. Fortunately the boy is getting along very well, but the surgeon deemed it best not to take the ball out at present.

An Entire Success.

An Old Paper.

—Mr. J. M. Alden has handed us a copy of the New Hampshire Gazette, (No. 44 of volume XLVIII), published at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, Tuesday, October 18th, 1803, "published by Nathaniel S. & W. Peirce, printers to the State, and printers of the laws of the United States." It is a five column folio sheet. The paper is filled principally with foreign news relating to the war preparations between England and France, of which Napoleon is the central figure, and under the heading of late from France we find the following:

"Yesterday, Capt. Cowell arrived here from Bordeaux, in 37 days. He informs, that it had been officially announced in the Paris papers, that Admiral Nelson, with a squadron of seven frigates, had bombarded the town of Algiers, in consequence of the Dey's having imprisoned the British merchants and confiscated their property. When Capt. C. left France, no relaxation of activity had taken place in the construction of gunboats for the expedition against England; the army destined to invade which was said to be composed of 300,000 men. The people appeared to be much discontented with the measures that had involved them in war, but the government kept them under au point de la bayonet. Capt. C. adds, that the French coast was lined with British cruisers; of which fifteen were said to be three deckers. An account of a fracas between Lord Nelson and the Algerines, is received via Halifax."

BELLE HAYNER.

Belle Hayner died in Chicago, February 16th, 1882, of malarial fever, age 22 years. She was born near Janesville, Dec. 8th, 1859, and lived here for the first sixteen years of her life, moving to Chicago with her parents only six years ago. Early in life she manifested a passion for music, and left the Janesville High school to devote her entire time to musical studies under the direction of Professor Bischoff, and completed her studies at the Chicago Musical Conservatory. Her development was rapid, and, at the time of her death, she had won a place of honor and influence in musical circles. But she was not satisfied with the mere possession and enjoyment of her gifts, feeling that they must be consecrated to the upbuilding of God's work; so she became an efficient helper, as organist in the Mission chapel at the Pacific Garden Mission.

For four months she had suffered severely. Yet her patience and faith completely triumphed over all weariness and pain; not a doubt or a complaint escaped her lips. She wanted to live, she said; life seemed so full of rich possibilities, yet she was ready to go at any moment. God knew best. As death became more and more certain, she planned, even to the minutest details, for her funeral services, both here and in Chicago. She desired particular persons to perform these last offices of kindness. She selected all the music to be sung;—"Asleep in Jesus"; "When for me the silent oar parts the silent river"; "Angels ever bright and fair," from Handel; and of the well known hymn, "I am praying for you," the first stanza, and the stanza beginning—"I have a peace, it is calm as a river." She chose the passages to be read from the Bible,—the psalm beginning—"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble," to be followed by the Beatitudes from the Sermon on the Mount; and she wanted, in the services here, something said, based upon the words—"Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

Another gentle, lovely spirit has left us and gone to God; yet we must thank him for her twenty-two years of beautiful life, and for the radiant peace and grand trust of those sacred hours just before the "silver cord was loosed and the golden bowl broken."

The funeral of Miss Hayner was held on Sunday afternoon at half-past two o'clock, at the residence of Mr. H. F. Bliss, on Jackson street, the Rev. O. A. Curtis, of Court Street church officiating, who read the above biographical sketch of the deceased during the solemn service. The musical part of the service was taken by Mrs. St. John, Miss Emma Josslyn, Mr. C. N. Vankirk, and Mr. William Bladen, and Miss Julie C. Wilson accompanist. The pall-bearers were Frank Hogoboom, Samuel Lightbody, John G. Rexford, Wells Ray, Wallace Nash, and Charles L. Clark.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—ED.

STATEMENT UNDER OATH.

"I HAVE been afflicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M. D.'s Psoriasis, and others Leprosy, commencing on my scalp, and, in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skillful doctors, it slowly but surely extended until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there could be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of the winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The 12th of June I started West, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit, and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. ——— treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs, feet badly swooden, toe nails came off, finger nails dead and hard as bone, hair dead, dry and lifeless as old straw. Oh, my God! how I did suffer!

"My sister, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of Cuticura in the house. She wouldn't give up, said I would try Cuticura." Some was applied on one hand and arm. Eureka! there was relief; stopped the terrible burning sensation from the word go. They immediately got the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier), Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures.) I commenced by taking one tablespoonful of Resolvent three times a day, after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Cuticura Soap freely; applied Cuticura morning and evening. Result, returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Explanatory!

—:o:—

During the months of November and December we selected an Elegant line of Spring and Summer Woolens, secured the services of Mr. Shea as Cutter, and fitted up the finest taloring room in the State, preparatory to conducting manufacturing on a much larger scale, but other affairs requiring our entire attention, we have disposed of the stock and good will of this Department and leased the store and fixtures for a term of years to MR. J. I. SHEA, whom we cheerfully recommend to our former customers and all others desiring Garments to Order.

Respectfully,

M. C. SMITH & SON.
